The 44th Annual Arts Awards is being presented by:

Florida Blue
In the pursuit of health

The Cultural Council of Greater Jacksonville raises funds every year during the annual Arts Awards gala, which help fill budgetary gaps in operating and program budgets. Donations and sponsorships from amazing sponsors, such as Florida Blue, are critical for delivering interesting, innovative, and impactful programs for artists, youth, and nonprofit organizations. Donations and sponsorships are needed now more than ever. There are several ways for you to participate in our success.

Tonight’s virtual Arts Awards features text to give and an online auction. The auction is full of Caribbean travel, gift certificates, experiences, and the artistry of local creatives. Your participation in the auction is also a platform for artists in our community to sell their work. Studies have shown that the arts industry was one of the hardest hit since March, losing over $6M in revenue. Artists, of all disciplines, have suffered the consequences.

When you purchase a piece of artwork from the auction, the wholesale price (usually the minimum bid) of each piece of artwork sold will go directly to the artist. Anything above that will go towards the Cultural Council’s fundraising goal. So, when you purchase a piece of artwork, know that your money is going directly to support a local artist.

Dear Friends,

Welcome! Thank you for joining the Cultural Council of Greater Jacksonville in presenting this year’s arts awards celebration themed Bridges: Connecting Arts, Business, and Community. The 44th Arts Awards is a special time for acknowledging that non-profit arts organizations, artists, and business are cornerstones of Jacksonville’s economy. Together arts and business bring vitality and livability to communities throughout the City.

The Cultural Council could not continue to invest in artists, deliver public art, or award grant funds to our nonprofit arts sector without you, our sponsors, donors, esteemed board members, staff, and all of our dedicated volunteers. We believe that the social and economic benefit of arts and culture is invaluable to all. Our work only exists through your generous support.

We know that our sector must face difficult choices as we navigate this health and economic crisis, knowing that it is highly likely that our ways of working will be forever altered. However, we must preserve and draw on our existing positive achievements to move to a brighter and better future. Tonight’s virtual presentation of the Arts Awards is a testament to achievements in and on behalf of arts and culture. As our theme suggests each nominee and award winner is an important connector for the arts, business, and community.

It is with admiration and gratitude that we present the 44th Arts Awards.

JANNET M. WALKER-FORD
Dear Friends,

First and foremost – We are grateful and thankful. We are grateful to be here with you despite the tremendous challenges brought to us by coronavirus and social unrest. We are thankful that you have chosen to spend your time and treasure with the Cultural Council.

So many people and organizations in our city act as bridges for the arts and cultural community, connecting across divides. These relationships are filled with tremendous synergy towards community solutions and mutual support. Tonight, we are welcoming the 2020 cadre Arts Awards winners. This 44th arts awards event, Bridges: Connecting, Arts, Business and the Community, is being presented to honor the many fruitful relationships between artists, arts and cultural organizations, and the entire businesses community. Though we are unable to join together in person to recognize award winners, we are celebrating virtually. We can’t wait to meet all of you in person again.

Tonight is the start of an amazing future. I am optimistic that connecting and working together in and through the arts is a bridge whatever comes before us. E pluribus arts.

JOY YOUNG, Ph.D.
WE ARE A DIVERSE PEOPLE

We understand culture, communicate it, preserve it and continuously create it.
TENIKKA HUGHES - Host

Tenikka Hughes anchors the 4, 5, 6 and 10 and 11 p.m. newscasts on CBS47 & FOX30 Action News Jax. She is an award-winning journalist from the small town of Whitakers, North Carolina. Tenikka has been in the television news industry for more than 16 years and has also worked in Charlotte, Memphis, and Macon.

Tenikka regularly volunteers her time in local schools and daycares; reading to children and sharing her passion for youth literacy and education. She also spearheads an annual effort to collect book donations for children who participate in the Jacksonville Public Library’s Summer Learning Program. Since its inception in 2018, “Tenikka’s Books for Kids” has helped collect more than 12,000 free, new books for local children.

She graduated summa cum laude with an undergraduate degree in Mass Communications from Benedict College in Columbia, South Carolina. Tenikka also earned a Master’s in Journalism from the University of Maryland at College Park. She enjoys traveling and trying new restaurants with her husband Timothy.
AL EMERICK - Co-host

Al is an entrepreneur who helps people and companies discover the DNA of their value and impact. His career has been spent as a multi-channel storyteller & communicator consulting with Fortune 100 & 500 companies as well as start-ups, small businesses, and non-profits. An avid theatre enthusiast and performer, Al’s face and voice have been part of the brand story in more than 15,000 TV, radio, video productions, and commercials, as well as speaking and emceeing before more than a quarter-million people. He has dedicated his life to lifting others and helping society connect and share value. He does this through his company’s ValueMapping and Al Emerick Productions. Al is currently producing a podcast called ValueJourneys as well as writing his first book exploring how value lives and grows within our lives.

PHILIPH PAN - Performer

Violinist Philip Pan was born in Schenectady, New York to Chinese immigrants. After receiving his Masters in Music from the Juilliard School, Pan started his career with the Jacksonville Symphony in 1984 and retired as Concertmaster in 2017. Pan is also a founding member of the Bold City Contemporary Ensemble and currently performs with Folk is People, Different Folk, and Mariachi Primera Costa. Recently, Pan served as the Assistant Music Director on Jennifer Chase’s “Majigeen” at FSCJ and performed at the Amelia Island Chamber Music Festival. He works as a performer, arranger, and composer in diverse musical styles that range from bluegrass to prog metal. Pan is the 2017 winner of the 42nd Arts Awards Performing Artist of the Year.
CHRISTIAN SCOTT

Performer

Christian Scott started attending the Don’t Miss a Beat (DMAB) program along with his 3 other siblings for two years. He joined the “Music Art and Academic Enrichment Summer Camp,” and was cast as one of the “Storytellers,” in our 2019 production of “Once on this Island Jr,” at the Ritz Theatre. Christian is incredibly articulate, smart, very driven as a student, and is a great writer. Because of his love of writing and speaking, Artistic Director Ulysses Owens Jr, felt this performance would be a great opportunity for Christian to display his talent. Christian Scott is also a student at Stanton College Preparatory High School. The poem that Christian is reciting was written by Jaida Ings. Together, they worked to present this message that they wholeheartedly believe in. This presentation demonstrates to the world their brilliance as powerful young black voices. This poem was also performed as part of the 2020 “Picnic at the Cabaret,” performed at DMAB. The mission of Don’t Miss a Beat is to blend music, art, academic achievement, and civic engagement to inspire and enlighten children and teens in the Riverside, Woodstock and Brooklyn communities.

The Creator of the Awards

This year’s awards were designed by Megan Reid, local artist and Jacksonville University alumni.

The circular glass waves are an adaptation of the Cultural Council of Greater Jacksonville’s logo and representative of Jacksonville’s rivers. It was fitting with this year’s theme of Bridges: Connecting Arts, Business, and Community as the river flows underneath every bridge. The waves also fit in with the artist’s efforts in advocacy for ocean conservation.
Art doesn’t just reflect life. It makes it brighter, every day.

We’re proud supporters of the arts, and big fans of the people behind them. Thank you, Cultural Council and Arts Awards winners, for helping to make Jacksonville a beautiful place.

JENNY HAGER

Artist, Sculptor, Teacher, Collaborator and Professor of Sculpture at the University of North Florida.

Hager received her MFA in Sculpture and Digital Media from San Jose State University in San Jose, CA. Interested in a variety of processes and materials, including steel, cast iron, post-it notes, video, wood, digital photography and found objects, she finds inspiration in dreams, objects from her childhood, gadgets, sea life and other curiosities. She is also very interested in collaboration; the spirit of community important in both her teaching practice and in her own work. Hager’s work has been exhibited across the country and recently in the Cymru Ironstone Castle Exhibition in Wales, the Pedvale Open-Air Art Museum in Latvia and Il Giardino di Daniel Spoerri in Seggiano, Italy. Flight Lab, a video installation by Hager, has traveled to the Ogden Museum of Southern Art in New Orleans and York, Pennsylvania. Hager’s most recent series “Second Line” celebrates diversity of culture, individual storytelling and the spirit of the Second Line tradition of New Orleans parade culture. Most recently, Hager created a 20’ tall steel mosaic giraffe sculpture for the Jacksonville Zoo and Gardens and two sculptural benches for downtown Jacksonville. Hager is an active member of the Jacksonville art community. She has served on the MOCA Collections and Exhibitions committee, as well as the MOCA Education committee. Interested in promoting local artists and creating creative networks in Jacksonville, she has served on the steering committee for the Northeast Florida Sculptors group since its inception in 2009. Since moving to Jacksonville in 2006, Hager and Vickery have installed over 80 pieces of large scale sculptures in the area (some permanent and some temporary).
SHAWANA BROOKS AND ROOSEVELT WATSON III

Artists

Shawanna Brooks is a spoken word poet, memoirist, public speaker, author, and curator whose art revolves around personal storytelling fused to issues of social justice around multiple topics. Her Husband, Roosevelt Watson III, is a visual artist, art educator, and illustrator in Jacksonville, Florida. Brooks and Watson’s work happens through grassroots initiatives, created outside of traditional institutions. They have designed spaces to spark conversation and innovation. Their outdoor pop-up gallery, 6 Ft Away, which started as a “Covid project, has since evolved to receive national attention for the city. This Gallery showcases Watson’s multi-media assemblages that tackle themes as wide-ranging as the meaning of Zodiac signs to the slow gentrification of American Beach. His work highlights people such as Eartha White, A. Phillip Randolph, and Stetson Kennedy.

Their most recent project, Color Jax Blue was born from Brooks’ and Watson’s experience prioritizing civic engagement into their work. A mural project designed to encourage voting, grew out of Brook’s observation of little to no public art in underserved neighborhoods. Watson wanted to create more opportunities for Black artists to present their work in a public setting and to build experience. Working together, Brooks designed a project for artists of color to gain abilities to learn the public art process.

Brooks was awarded the Cultural Council of Greater Jacksonville’s, Robert Arleigh White Award for Artist Advocacy. She is a recipient of the Community Foundation of Northeast Florida Art Venture’s Individual Artist Grant. The Yellow House Gallery hosted her first solo show, “Magic, Mirth and Mortality: Musings on Black. Watson was also in Yellow house for his Waymaker Series, large scale art assemblages dedicated to African Americans of Northeast Florida.

The nominees for this award are:

JACKSONVILLE REGIONAL TRANSPORTATION CENTER (JRTC) AT LAVILLA

The Jacksonville Regional Transportation Center (JRTC) at LaVilla is an innovative and visionary multi modal mobility hub in the heart of Downtown Jacksonville. It connects JTA transportation services with intercity bus service and future mobility options in once centralized location. By planting our flag in the heart of this historic neighborhood, the JTA has created a space that will serve as a catalyst for its continued resurgence, and the connective tissue for our entire region.
The Jacksonville Aviation Authority (JAA) recognized the need for art in airports, so in 1995, the Jacksonville International Airport Arts Commission was formed. Under the direction of the JAA, the mission of the JAA Art & Culture Program is to provide a positive distraction, soothe and inspire, and educate visitors regarding the abundant artistic and cultural resources available within our service region including Baker, Clay, Duval, Flagler, Nassau, Putnam, and Saint Johns counties.

The airport shows the work of professional and emerging artists. Its twelve collective indoor display spaces and two outdoor sculpture gardens showcase either fine art, cultural exhibitions, or the history of flight in Northeast Florida. All fine artworks are available for purchase, directly supporting the creatives living and working in Northeast Florida.
Most recently in late 2019, the JAA Art & Culture Program was awarded the distinction of being in the Top 15 Airports in the United States for its artistic and cultural offerings by the National Transportation Review Board, in a study commissioned by the FAA. The JAA’s art program has been honored and given accolades by regional and national, art and aviation industry trade magazines during its 25-year history.

The environment created by this program has assisted in JAX being awarded the important, aviation industry Airport Service Quality (ASQ) Award for excellence. This award represents the highest possible accolades for airport operators and is an opportunity to celebrate the commitment of airports worldwide to continuously improve the passenger experience. JAX has been recognized in the Top 3 U.S. Airports annually for the past 4 years.

Through 25 years of arts advocacy, the Jacksonville Aviation Authority has showcased works by more than 700 artists, provided 68 cultural exhibitions, and introduced this region’s creatives to more than 130,000,000 visitors.

A middle school Art Educator for Duval County Public Schools, Holloway teaches 2D and 3D art at James Weldon Johnson College Prep Middle School and teaches art after school for Cathedral Arts Project, adult art class at night time at Fletcher High School, and art workshops at the Atlantic Beach Arts Market. Amanda comes from a family of artists, including Aunt Ann Holloway who was an art teacher and created the mosaic mural on the Jessie Ball DuPont building back in the 60’s or 70’s. Holloway has executed several murals as well as volunteered on many community-related art projects, murals, festivals, even (most recently) having student artwork published in RadX magazine. Holloway takes pride in building bridges between the Jacksonville arts community and public school’s arts programs. Holloway and her husband have curated exhibitions for group shows with local artists and other art educators in Duval and St. Johns County.
LAURIE HOPPOCK
Supervisor of the Visual and Performing Arts for Duval County Public Schools.

Laurie serves over 420 fine arts teachers across the school district through advocating for the support of high quality public fine arts education. During her 10 years in Jacksonville and with Duval County Public Schools, Laurie has worked in multiple school settings serving students with varying exceptionalities including, but not limited to autism, Down Syndrome, emotional and/or behavioral disturbances, learning disorders, seeing impairments or blindness, deaf or hard of hearing students. This passion led her to seek out opportunities to share her work and best practices with other art teachers so that they could expand their own practices to better support students with special needs. As the Supervisor of the Arts for DCPS, one of the most forward-facing parts of her work has been serving with our local art education association, the Northeast Florida Art Education Association and the planning and coordinating of fine arts events like our regional event, the Northeast Florida Scholastic Art Awards. Her Scholastics program is part of the national Scholastic Art & Writing Awards and involves the collection of over 3000 works of art from students around northeast Florida. She is working to find new ways to expand the innovative and specialized programming she offers students in our public schools, whether through highly-specialized fine arts programming, or fine arts programs that are specialized to student learning needs.
REBECCA R. LEVY
Choreographer, Performer, Educator.

Levy serves as a professor and Director of Dance at Florida State College at Jacksonville. Her critically acclaimed choreographic and performative work has been featured in festivals, films, concerts, and events internationally and throughout the country. The privilege of living in a variety of areas within the United States provided her with a diverse set of influences in her art. In 2012, she co-founded and took on the role of artistic director of Jacksonville Dance Theatre, a professional contemporary modern dance company, and has been working to slowly change the art culture of the city ever since. Her role in the company is to create dances, mount performances, commission new and innovative artists, and provide dance training to company members. In a recent presentation for TEDx, she gave a talk titled “Engaging A Movement” about her experiences founding JDT and advocating for professional dance in Jacksonville. Throughout her career in dance she has created, produced, and mounted a multitude of shows, events, performances, and pop-ups on national and international stages. Her work was shown in Puebla, Mexico, and during a tour to France last year she had the opportunity to perform at the Chartres and Grail Haven Labyrinths. Through her work with JDT Rebecca has had the opportunity to dance in works choreographed by Jonah Bokaer, Bryn Cohn, Bliss Kohlmyer, Lisa D. Long, Tiffany Santeiro, James Morrow, and many others. Levy recently earned a 40 Under 40 award from The Jacksonville Business Journal, and was named Outstanding Faculty of the Year in 2016. She was awarded a 2019 Individual Artist Grant by Community First Bank, and a 2020 Arts Ventures Individual Artists Grant by the Community Foundation of Northeast Florida. Levy is a registered Certified Yoga Instructor, a certified Pilates instructor and dabbles in aerial acrobatics.

EU JACKSONVILLE NEWSPAPER

In memory of William C. Henley, Publisher (1951-2018)

Since 1978, EU Jacksonville Newspaper has provided local coverage of Northeast Florida’s cultural landscape. Always family-owned and independently operated, EU Jacksonville maintains a diverse collection of local writers to cover performances, art, dining, sports, outdoor activities and all the other fun cultural activities in the area. “At EU Jacksonville Newspaper, we feel passionate about supporting local artists, creative groups and the culture in and around Jacksonville.” Every year EU publishes a bi-annual performing arts preview, visual art guides, Spring & Fall festival previews, The Chef Selects dining issues, holiday event and local gift guides, Summer & Fall activity guides. EU Jacksonville has always believed in giving budding writers, artists, and photographers a platform and welcomed their contribution to its publication. EU Jacksonville has partnered with local educators and important cultural institutions such as the Cultural Council of Greater Jacksonville, the Museum of Science & History, the City of Jacksonville, Theatre Alliance of Greater Jacksonville, Jacksonville Historic Society, GastroJax Inc, Jacksonville Public Library, Jacksonville Riverkeeper, Tree Hill Nature Center, and many more, to contribute to our content and help widen their reach in the community. EU feel's that this collaboration has given the publication a broad stroke of what Jacksonville's creatives provide, both in practice and recognition, for over forty years.

VOID MAGAZINE

Void Magazine is dedicated to keeping the reader’s proverbial finger on the pulse of arts and culture, business and entrepreneurship, and issues of import in Northeast Florida. Aside from producing 30,000 copies of Void Magazine each month and dozens of web stories, as a media outlet Void’s produced more than 25 digital video performances by local musicians via the “Into the Void: Office Music Series,” released three all-local music compilations featuring more than three dozen Northeast Florida artists pressed on 180-gram vinyl, hosted several art shows featuring the work of local artists (including the “Cover Art Show” last November, a group show in which artists produced distinctive versions of a Void Mag cover and proceeds from sales of prints went directly to the Kids Mural Project), and a podcast miniseries, “The VOIDCAST,” made in partnership with WJCT Public media, which dove into the history and contemporary vibrancy of music from Northeast Florida.
At the onset of the pandemic, Void partnered with local clothing manufacturer Strata on the “Void This Virus” artist relief fund, which—through the Cultural Council of Greater Jacksonville—provided direct financial assistance to Duval County-based artists who’d lost income due to the economic shutdown. In July, Void launched the Void Artist Network (VAN) a collaboration meant to—through collections of unique artist-designed merchandise—showcase work both inspired by our unique region and capable of inspiring others to push for a more-creative Northeast Florida.

PETRA - ELIAS HIONIDES

PETRA is a full service real estate brokerage, development, and management company. Founded in 1993, PETRA has established itself as Jacksonville’s premier boutique real estate company. PETRA manages and represents over 1.2 million SF of commercial real estate in Greater Jacksonville with a focus on Jacksonville’s most dense and walkable communities. PETRA works closely with artists, community and civic leaders, and tenants and owners, to bring exciting and new concepts to the region, working to develop diverse and authentic communities. PETRA exists to create meaningful value to their clients and to create experiences that deepen the connections amongst people, culture, and the places they inhabit. The experience they offer is what people connect with or are turned off by most, so it is critical to be thoughtful about how people interact with your assets. PETRA specializes in creating positive experiences, ranging from our hands-on and local brokerage expertise, to short-term asset activations and long-term placemaking initiatives.
We are proud to present this year’s Art Innovator Award, because innovation and breakthrough storytelling are at the heart of everything we do.

PAUL BOURCIER

Bourcier is the Curator at the Museum of Science & History (MOSH). He oversees the museum’s program of core, signature, traveling, outreach, and online exhibits. During the past four years, Bourcier has spearheaded the museum’s Arts Infusion and Artist in Residence Programs, which explore the intersections of art with the humanities, natural science and the hard sciences and concentrates on the themes of environment, innovation, multiculturalism and social justice. These programs highlight the works of Duval area artists for audiences that may not go to art museums and galleries.

NICOLE RADACZ
Founder and Creative Director of Radx Magazine.

Radacz seeks to use her brand to highlight and uplift talented local artists in an innovative way. She showcases quality top-of-the line works of art and features dozens of creatives who make a difference. Her biggest achievement has been Radx Magazine because it has allowed her the opportunity to give back to the local art community and feature some of the most talented, underrated artists.
30 YEARS OF ART VENTURES

The visionary leadership of donors to The Community Foundation for Northeast Florida brought the Art Ventures Fund to life 30 years ago. Since then, hundreds of artists and organizations have been the beneficiaries.

As The Community Foundation celebrates this milestone, we honor 30 new grant recipients – more than in any other year since Art Ventures was launched. Celebrate with us at a special exhibition at the Cummer Museum of Art & Gardens in January, 2021.

For more information, go to www.jaxcf.org/the-arts.

The nominees for this award are:

MARK KRANCER
Photographer

Is a professional event photographer and fine art landscape, with a passion for visually telling the stories of our community. He enjoys working with nonprofits to better market themselves, especially Urban Planning, Historic Preservation, Prison Transitional housing/reform, and Arts related organizations. Krancer often donates fine art prints to silent or live auctions such as, Nemours, Angelwood, University of North Florida, Greenscape, American Cancer Society, Volunteers in Medicine, UCOM, Guardian Ad Litem, Downtown Vision, Feeding Northeast Florida, Lutheran Social Services, Jacksonville Jazz Society, and others. Most recently, Krancer donated his time and expertise for professional headshots of the young Douglas Anderson Students who created the beautiful mural in the Avondale area this past spring in hopes of helping them market themselves and begin their professional artistic careers.
TOMAS VERCHER
Retired Fine Artist/Designer.

Vercher teaches, creates, exhibits, donates and designs art of many mediums based in traditions of the African Diaspora. His work is meant to heal and unify all people and all cultures. He has worked in the aerospace, automobile, television and music industry using his education and experience to create, service and raise a family. Vercher retired from the Los Angeles Central Library after 25 years, while also maintaining his Studio. “This nomination,” Vercher says, “means so much to me, after living in Jacksonville for 10 years and finally to be recognized at 75 years young.”

TED AND ALEXANDRA STEIN
Founders of Jacksonville Arts & Music School (JAMS)

In 2011, the Stein’s had a dream to start an arts based nonprofit. With the conviction that the art of problem solving was being lost in the schools, and the best way for kids to learn how to problem solve is to foster their creative abilities, they created JAMS, a Creative Youth Development Program. The vision of the Stein's is to create positive change in our community by developing tomorrow's problem-solvers, creative thinkers, and innovative leaders.

WORD REVOLT

Word Revolt Art Gallery Inc. is a free exhibition platform for local artists and charities. Word Revolt Art Gallery Inc. hosts curated pop-up exhibitions and events, once a month for artists and charities. 100% of proceeds raised from the events go directly to the artists, non-profit or charity featured. Artists include but are not limited to local university and high-school students as well as emerging and established artists. These artists receive mentorship on how to prepare their artwork for the gallery, with insight into curating and installation, while gaining valuable skills and experience to expand their network and opportunities. Over the past 3 years, Word Revolt has generated roughly $20,000 directly to artists and charities through art sales and auction from a total of 26 exhibitions. Other non-profit organizations we have partnered with include Hope at Hand, Give Back Jax, Jacksonville Painting of the Paws, Beaches Sea Turtle Patrol, UNF, The Foundation Academy, Sisters of the Sea, The St. Elisabeth Convent, The Bruno Steel House, Burnt Glassworks and Canine Companions for Independence. In 2019 Word Revolt was awarded a public art grant from the City of Atlantic Beach for the Mayport Road Mural project. A community paint out day was organized and held on Nov. 3rd, 2019. Over 100 guests and members of the local community came out to paint and show their pride and dedication to the arts. In 2020, Word Revolt was awarded another public arts grant to create artist made lamp posts and a bike rack sculpture.
44th Annual Arts Awards
Nomination Process and Selection

The winners of the 44th Annual Arts Awards are determined by an Arts Awards Nominating Committee composed of Cultural Council of Greater Jacksonville Board Members, Past Arts Award Winners, Cultural Serve Grant Recipients, and Members of the Arts and Culture Community. Committee members recuse themselves if a conflict of interest exists in voting.

Nominations for all nine categories were received via online submission. Each category has criteria to help nominators and the panel determine the appropriateness of the submission.

The Arts Award Committee reviews nominations for each category, and as a group, decides who are the final 3 nominees for each category. After The Cultural Council of Greater Jacksonville announces the finalist for each category, the committee makes a final and confidential vote to decide the winner of each particular category. Past winners are not eligible to receive an award in the same category. The People’s Choice Award has four nominees, which is an exception for this new category. This award is decided by the highest number of votes by the community. When the final vote for the People’s Choice Award is tabulated, only select staff from the Cultural Council of Greater Jacksonville Staff are aware of the winners. The Cultural Council of Jacksonville takes pride in having an equitable and transparent Arts Awards process.
